◀ HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

SPMS Biweekly e-Bulletin | 15 March 2017

◀ WE'D LIKE TO HEAR FROM YOU

Calling out to all SPMS graduating students (Class of 2017)! Complete a survey by 7 April and stand a chance to win a $50 Takashimaya voucher (3 winners).

The survey aims to gather your feedback on your undergraduate study experience in SPMS. Your inputs will help us enhance undergraduate education in SPMS.

Please click here and register to create an account with us before accessing the survey.

The website works best on Chrome & Firefox. Please contact spms-itsupport@ntu.edu.sg if you encountered any technical issue. Winners will be notified via email for voucher collection.

◀ NTU OPEN HOUSE 2017

The NTU Open House held on 4 March, was a tremendous success with a turnout of more than 16,000 visitors, despite the intermittent rain throughout the day. SPMS faculty members and students were there to explain the degree programmes and talk about various aspects of student life in SPMS. The admission applications for 'A' Level holders will close on 19 March. We look forward to welcoming this new batch of students into our vibrant SPMS community come August.

◀ SPMS ALUMNI REUNION

On 10 March, about 78 SPMS alumni attended the inaugural SPMS Alumni Reunion at the newly opened NTU Alumni House in Marina Square. College of Science Dean Prof Ling San was the Guest-of-Honour. The event was attended by SPMS Chair Prof Chee Yeow Meng, Division Heads Prof Chiba Shunsuke (CBC), Assoc Prof Chan Song Heng (MAS), Prof Phan Anh Tuan (PAP) and various faculty members.

◀ MUSIC INTIME EVERY WEDNESDAY

Join us at SPMS MAS Atrium for a performance by KIV, a group formed by WKWSCI students Hazel and Jovi, on 15 March from 12.45pm to 1.15pm. Let them serenade you with their unique and harmonious vocals. Delight yourself with pastries from around the world.

There will be more musical performances in the coming weeks. Stay tuned to updates on NTU SPMS Facebook.
