SPMS OPEN HOUSE

On 28 January, SPMS welcomed close to 300 prospective students to its campus. There were degree programme talks, science lectures and alumni sharing sessions for visitors to gain a better understanding about the school. The visitors had the opportunity to tour the school compound, and to visit the state-of-the-art laboratories and research facilities. The elephant paste chemistry demonstration staged by CBC especially awe the crowd.

INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE YOUTH FORUM

About 30 aspiring young scientists from Poland, USA, South Korea, China and Singapore visited SPMS on 23 January. They were here to partake in the annual International Science Youth Forum (ISFY). The students attended an entertaining physics lecture by our senior lecturer Dr Ho Shing Yong that drew some laughter from the audience, and toured the labs and facilities in the chemistry and physics division.

SPMS DINNER & DANCE

We held our SPMS Dinner & Dance on 18 January to celebrate the School’s milestones for the past one year and pay tribute to the people who made this possible. About 200 distinguished guests, faculty, research and administrative staff attended the event. The highlight of the evening was a mystical mind-reading act by ‘Mentalist’ Nique Tan who stunned audience with his performance. Congratulations to the following people who were recognised for their achievements and service.
